

What is a Parent PLUS Loan?

A Parent PLUS Loan is a federal student loan available to parents with good credit histories who want to help pay for their dependent child's undergraduate education. (A similar Graduate PLUS Loan is available to graduate students.) Under the program, parents can borrow up to the full cost of their child's college education each year, less any financial aid received. For example, if college costs $30,000 this year and a student receives $10,000 in financial aid, parents would potentially be eligible for a $20,000 PLUS Loan. To qualify, students must be attending an eligible school at least half time.

PLUS Loans aren't based on financial need; parents need only pass a credit check. Under new federal legislation passed in MAY, parents who are delinquent up to 180 days on their home mortgage or medical debt will still be considered creditworthy to borrow under the program.

The interest rate on all PLUS Loans issued on or after July, 1 2006, is capped at 8.5%. (For PLUS Loans issued before this date, the interest rate is variable, adjusted each July, and capped at 9%.)

Interest begins accruing upon the first loan disbursement, but thanks to the recent legislation, parents have the option to defer repayment of the loan for up to six months after their child leaves school. Previously, repayment was required to begin within 60 days of the last loan disbursement for that year.

PLUS Loans can be made either by private lenders who participate in the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP), or directly by the federal government under the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program. The federal government recently took steps to pump liquidity into the FFELP market due to turmoil in the general credit markets, so fund availability isn't expected to be a problem.
